Playing The Game

I cannot, of course, place you bodily in this valley. Instead you are represented inside the computer. You are allocated, for instance, a certain strength which will go down if you are stabbed, belted etc. by unfriendly creatures, rather like in real life. Under normal circumstances you will gradually recover from any hurt but, like everything in this life, there are exceptions to the rule.

Although the machine becomes your physical body, you are of course still left with your own mind! It will be your decisions which determine your fate.

Collect as much treasure as you can without being killed. Your score increases as your success rate increases. The maximum score possible is 1,024 points. The game begins with you standing on a road running from East to West. Where you go and what you do is up to you. The best of luck...
